Villa Iris - Frigiliana

🛏 3 🚿 2 👥 6

One of the luxury highlights of the villa is the huge indoor Jacuzzi, which features a flat screen TV, built into the wall. Surrounded by crimson and cream mosaic tiles, it is a chic addition to an already stunning property. There are several areas to chill, with modern sofas and also an indoor dining table for six. We loved the contemporary touches in the bedrooms, such as the Japanese style sliding wardrobe doors and the brilliant white blinds. A stroll into the centre of Nerja takes just under half an hour. Part of Spain’s Costa Del Sol, Nerja has maintained its authenticity, with narrow cobbled streets and whitewashed houses. The area boasts sixteen kilometres of golden beaches and fantastic water sports such as Scuba diving and sailing.

Location

Known also as the white village, Frigiliana sits high upon a mountain ridge, right above the beautiful resort town of Nerja. Embroiled in a labyrinth of steep cobbled footpaths, narrow winding streets and traditional whitewashed houses, it is no wonder that it was voted the prettiest village in Andalucia by the Spanish tourism authority. Two sections make up Frigiliana; The newer, lower section and the older Morisco-Mudájar neighbourhood which makes up the upper section. Steeped in history and authenticity the upper section is certainly the main attraction. Here you will be taken back in time to Moorish lands and a selection of decorative floor mosaics tell a tale which goes as far back as the 8th century!

Mobility Statement

This villa is in an exceptionally hilly/mountainous area. The grounds are flat and the pool has roman steps to enter. Outdoors areas are flat but the access to the villa is really stepped. There are small steps (5 cm high) to have access to the main gate and small steps from the patio windows to the terrace/patio (3cm).
